When asked to make deposit, Baere said he had no change, but would pay for the shoes when they were ready. He went back to the store about 1 p. m. yesterday, and tried on the shoes which fitted his feet perfectly. Then he offered in payment a check for $10. The check had been drawn on the Murray Hill Bank, at Third-ave. and Forty-seventh-st. It was made payable to "J. Baere," and was signed by "Frank Brown." Baere said he liked the shoes so well that he would have a pair of patent leather shoes made also. Ritterband night take out of the check the money for both pairs.

Ritterhand answered that he did not have the change in the store, but would get the check cashed while ere was being measured for the patent leather shoes. Ritterband's helper, Jacob Maus, was in the store at the time. Ritterband, who was suspicious of fraud, went directly to the bank and presented the check there. The cashier handed it back with the statement that it was worthless. There were no funds there to meet the amount of the check, the cashier said. He stamped "no account" on the check. The dealer hastened back to his store and found Baere waiting there with the pair of shoes in his hand. He snatched the shoes out of the hand of the swindler and then Courished the check in his face, with the demand : What do you mean by this? You are trying to

A DRUNKEN MAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Thomas Fox, an Irishman, sixty years old, was burned to death in an attic room of the tenement se No. 107 Greenwich-st. early yesterday morning. He had lived there with his wife for a number of years, and they paid no rent because they were the housekeepers. Fox carried a hod when he was not too drunk to work, but he had not worked for six months, it was said. In a drunken frenzy on Wednesday night he beat his wife, and she fied to the rooms of a neighbor, leaving him alone in the attic. He probably upset a lamp in his room by accident, and it set fire to his clothes as he lay helpsections, and it set in the floor. When his wife returned to the room early yesterday morning she found his half-roasted body, from which every stitch of clothing had been burned away. The flames had not set fire to the room, fortunately, and there was no dam-age to the house.

MR. CLAUSEN GAVE THEM WATCHES.

Tax Commissioner George C. Clausen signalized the end of his first month's service as a public official yesterday by presenting to each of his associates on the Tax Board, President E. P. Barker and Commissioner E. L. Parris, a costly full-jewelled gold watch. The presents were exactly alike, open-faced, stem-winders, with Roman numerals, and the monograms of Mr. Barker and Mr. Parris handsomely engraved upon the backs of the watches. The presentation was as informal as it was unexpected to the recipients.

MR. GERRY'S EXPLANATION.

HE DOES NOT ASSAIL THE LEGITIMATE THE-

ATRICAL PROFESSION-MANAGERS AROUSED. Elbridge T. Gerry has written a letter to The address before the Committee for the Prevention of State Regulation of Vice on Tuesday makes many misstatements and misrepresents him. The position that he assumed is outlined by him in a soutement which is in part as follows:

"I am not assalling the legitimate theatrical profession, nor the stage itself. It has always had he mirror up to nature. It has produced men and women of brilliancy and genius from the days of Shakespeare down. But in these degenerate days there has been engrafted on it what is commonly known as the 'leg drama,' and an attempt made to further bring within its province indecent physical exhibitions of the lowest grade. Bad as the modern leg drama is much worse to have children brought in contact with many women about whose private character for the first time in fifteen years, amended the law so as to permit the exhibition of children in legitimate theatrical business as an incident to the plot. This winter an attempt is threatened to open the door to vice by legalizing song and dance in every dive, den concert saloon and dime museum in this city, while the use of children as an incident to a play was asserted to be necessary and not harmful, and, to put it in the language of the advocates of las winter, to permit them to earn their own living. an enlargement of that bill so as to permit the introduction of song and dance in any licensed place of amusement simply means the education of female

New-York is to be asked, it is said, to practically legalize the education of children in vice by opening because any place which holds a license, be it saloon shall be allowed to exhibit these unfortunat children in song and dance. That simply ends in vice. You know what sort of places these are, and what such licenses amount to. Such places, children are allowed to perform therein, are simply sinks of iniquity. . . . As an act of simple justice to myself, and to the society which I represent, I respectfully ask that you will insert this communication in your valuable paper. The managers of reputable theatres in this city are always, without exception. warm friends of this society and of myself per-sonally, and I do not intend if I can avoid it to be misrepresented in what I say concerning the stage. Bacre's pockets were found four pawn tickets I have not assailed, and do not intend to assail; the legitimate theatrical profession. It has no warmer friend than myself, and I indignantly repudiate the assertion that I have made intemperate and unjust attacks on the reputations of women in that profession, or that I have denounced the stage as nothing more than the education of children in the school of vice.

made no such assertion."

A. M. Palmer gave a breakfast at the Players' yesterday to a number of his fellow-managers, and the subject was discussed. Among the guests were Daniel Frohman, Henry E. Abbey, John Schoeffel, Frank B. Murtha, E. C. Stanton, Frank W. Sanger, Rudolph Aronson, E. G. Gilmore, Eugene Tompkins, A. A. McCormick, H. C. Miner, E. F. Knowles, Heinrich Conried, J. Wesley Rosenquest, Marc Klaw and Oscar Hammerstein. It was decided that the managers should unite in a strong protest against Mr. Gerry's attitude and methods in relation to the employment of children on the stage. A meeting of probably nearly all the prominent theatrical managers of the city will be held this afternoon to take further action

Last winter the law in regard to child actors was amended, and the managers thought that they were to have little or no further trouble, but as soon as there was an opportunity for a test case it was found that Mr. Gerry had by no means lost his power to regulate affairs to a considerable extent. In fact, the managers who wanted to employ children have

THE COURTS.

HE CAN'T GET ANOTHER EXAMINATION. James Blewitt, who was a dealer in machinists supplies, at No. 425 Seventh-ave., was adjudged to be a lunatic, on the application of his wife, in June, 1800. In January, 1891, he applied for a new examination into his mental condition, and the application was denied. A short time later he made another application of the same nature, and this time his re-quest was granted. A commission was appointed. but instead of appearing before it Blewitt went to ew-Jersey, and did not appear in this city for some time. Finally the commission was discharged by the court. Recently he made another application to have his mental condition inquired into, and yesterday Jutice Andrews, in the Supreme Court, denied the mo-tion. The Court says that Blewitt did not take ad-vantage of the other chance, which he had of appear ing before the commission, and as the Judge does not think that he is capable of taking care of his own property, he thinks that his estate ought not to be burdened with the cost of another proceedings. Blewitt declares that his wife and children are conspiring to keep his property away from him. His business is said to be worth about $30,000.

THE WINCH SUIT GOES TO THE JURY.

The suit of Charles F. Winch against Wallace G. Andrews, to recover $9,500 alleged to be due for commissions on the sale of stock of the Standard Gas Light Company was finished and given to the jury late yesterday afternoon. Mr. Andrews was cross-examined by ex-Judge Gedney, and the ques-tion of his religious belief was brought up again. The witness stuck to the story which he had told on the direct evanination. At 6 o'clock the jury had not agreed and Judge Giegerich, in the Court of Common Pleas, ordered a scaled verdict to be brought in this morning.

BITS OF LEGAL NEWS.

Judge McGown, in the City Court, yesterday ordered William H. McGlory to pay $766 to the firm of S. J. Lanahan & Co., of Baltimore, within five days or to got to juil. The sum was due for a liquor bill, and the firm secured a judgment, which was not paid. McGlory was examined in supplementary proceedings, and since then he is charged with having disposed of some of his property in violation of the order of the Court.

Judge McCarthy, in the City Court, yesterlay gave a judgment of $77.40 against Frederick D. Yuengling, jr., in favor of Brower Brothers, for flowers. Mr. Yuengling's lawyer wanted an adjournment, saying that his client was in the West, and that he would be back in a short time. Judge McCarthy refused to grant the adjournment.

Justice Beach, in the Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday ordered that Mrs. Rose Moss be allowed to see her boy, who is four and one-half years old, and who has been with his father for several months. Charles G. Moss, the father of the child, is an actor, and he is suing his wife for an absolute divorce. Mrs. Moss has Judge McGown, in the City Court, yesterday ordered suing his wife for an absolute divorce. Mrs. Moss has filed a counter suit, also for absolute divorce, in which she names Carmencita as the corespondent. He denies undue intimacy with the dancer.

HAYES GUILTY OF PERJURY.

THE SECOND TRIAL ENDS IN A SPEEDY VER-

DICT AGAINST HIM. The second trial of Colonel W. B. Hayes for perjury ended yesterday with a verdict of guilty. Assistant District-Attorney Bartow S. Weeks made a powerful address to the jury in the morning. Judge Martine charged the jury after recess, and it retired at 4720 p. m. By 5 o'clock a verdict had been reached. On he first ballot the jurors stood ten to two in favor of a conviction, and the next ballot showed the twelve to be of one mind.

Ex-Judge George M. Curtis, who conducted the deence, had evidently not expected a verdict so soon, or he was not in court when the jury returned. R. J. Haire represented Hayes, and announced that a motion for a new trial would be made. Judge Martine thanked the jurors for their services, and sold them he believed their verdict entirely just. He remanded Hayes until March 3 for sentence.

On the former trial the jury was eleven to one for a conviction. Hayes was accused of making a false affidavit in support of a motion to reopen a default in a suit on a note. He was the father of Miss Anna M. Keating's child, and on October 27, Miss Anna M. Kealing's child, and on October 27, 1887, gave her a promissory note for $2,000. He did not pay it, and she brought a suit, to which he interposed no defence. Judgment was given against him. To reopen the case he made affidivit that he did not owe Miss Keating a dollar, and that he was in Florida on the date which the note bore. The trials were both long drawn out.
